DETAILED IN BELATED DISPATCHES.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—Baptists to-day met at all parts of London, held tales of the meeting and the various outrages upon the Jews. At the village of Blythe, on the Roman side of the River Forth, a house was destroyed by a large mob, into which the daily list of Jewish victims of the riots in London was taken. The crowd, it was ascertained by English consuls, was not only composed of persons who have decided not to celebrate any religious festival, but also of persons who have been very unpopular, has resigned.

DIABOLICAL MURDER DENS MUST GO, SAYS REV. MR. JOHNSON

Pastor Denounces Malpractitioners in Sermon, and Declares People Are Ready to Drive Them Out.

Rev. Herbert S. Johnson, in a sermon on the suit case tragedy at the Warren Avenue Baptist Church, entitled "Malpractice and the Election of John B. Moran," declared that the suit case crime was the principal factor in the District Attorney election. He urged the police to close the suit case murder dens. The sermon is given herewith:

The success of Mr. Moran at the polls was the next most surprising result of the election. More surprising still is the fact that we were surprised at first. For weeks the whole city had been swayed alternately between emotions of horror and indignation at revelations almost too shocking to be credited, that had been occasioned by the discovery in the dress suit case of the poor little chorus girl who was the victim of criminals.

In the face of these revelations the police of our city were loitering, asserting their powerlessness to check the riot of crime. Mr. Suckner, the present district attorney, who is personally a most estimable man, was pursuing a policy of silence. Meanwhile the newspapers were boldly publishing a long list of "offices" where the crime was alleged to be committed. With these intolerable conditions confronting us there was but one man who was expressing himself in a manner which was worthy of the situation in the slightest degree.

Mr. John B. Moran promised the citizens of Boston that if they would instruct him with the office of district attorney he would clean out the sink of iniquity. Thousands of us turned in relief to the one personality which offered a promise of hope. There were doubtless a number of causes which contributed to Mr. Moran's success.

Deciding Factor in His Election.

The deciding factor in his election was his promise to try to round up the criminals and put them in prison. Let us not man forget that Mr. John B. Moran would not be prosecuting attorney-elect in the County of Suffolk today but for the dress suit case that came drifting to the three-hole of our city with its mute appeal for justice against the hellish crew of malpractitioners.

Through his labors this city has expressed its faith in the sincerity and ability of Mr. Moran. Since his election I have not him for the first time personally. I wish to go upon record in the statement of my own conviction, that in no manner do I wish to be prominent. It is the duty of every lover of morality, of whatever race or religious belief, to stay up his hands. Through the choice of Mr. Moran, this country has spoken its protest against the forty-two thousand voices to the officials whose duty is the protection of the city from crime.

Righteousness Foundation of the Nation.

The foundation of national life is the righteousness of rulers and people. But righteousness is almost co-existent with some life. Some of us think the atmosphere of the real home which is vital to righteousness is possible only where there is purity of life on the part of the parents.

The children must derive their idea of good largely from their father and mother. If these names are sullied with impurity then the nature of the great All Father will be measured to the child. Truly will they comprehend the character of eternal righteousness.

We have here the malpractitioner in proportion to our devotion to virtue and patriotism and according to our love of home. Some of us think we could shake the malpractitioner from the true American home, which we believe should be the center of our government.

We should seek out the bold where the sun shines clearest and the soil is richest. There we should pick out the most radiant flower with the purest petals and the sweetest perfume. That flower should be our symbol of American fatherhood and motherhood and high life.

By as much as we love that ideal and desire our youth to attain to it, by as much as we have the noblest of malpractitioner and demand that they be swept from our public streets into our jails and prisons.

Expresses Hatred of Men as Murderers.

In the election of Mr. Moran the city expressed also its hatred of these men as murderers.

At least this crime is not a pleasant subject of contemplation. We are not pleased when we reflect that probably thousands of little helpless babies have been deprived of the opportunity of life during the last twelve months in the city of Boston. What more among them who will grow up with the possibilities of a Phillips Brooks or Wendell Phillips?

The evidence in a case of malpractice in Philadelphia showed that newborn babies were sometimes thrown into taphets because the life was out of them. In fact, there is a little child in our city who is still alive to reflect that possibly there are such operations or acts of quackery in the basements of buildings before which we pass and do not see every day of our lives.

This crime is the most diabolical kind of murder. If a good man is struck down by the hand of an assassin, we still drive away from our thoughts of his preparedness. Even when death comes in a terrible natural catastrophe our grief is not so great as when we see the death of a child. The blackness of the diabolical tragedy the faces of Smith and Sloan shine with a glow that is brighter than the sun.

But this type of criminal sends this victim before his maker with the blood of her own mother and without the opportunity of redemption. What comfort is there to relieve the death chamber of a Susan George? At the moment of death we feel that every man or woman should be at his best, with arms extended and peace inside him, when he died.

Died Without Comforts of Religion.

But the poor little dancer died without the comforts of religion. There was no priest to administer absolution, no friend to hold her trembling hand, no one to repeat a prayer. Crying for her mother, she drifted alone into the great blackness.

There was certainly no comfort or good cheer in the faces of carriers of the harp that seized upon her body while it was still warm to carve it up and crowd it into dress suit cases. These people were devils, not men.

The citizens of Boston are a religious people, trained in the truths of Christianity through many generations. We feel an unspeakable horror at the thought that such death scenes are being constantly enacted in this splendid city of colleges and churches and homes.

Protestantism to the strength and resolution of our demand that our officials shall give us relief from the presence of those who are guilty of malpractice.

If any man destroyeth the temple of God, him shall God destroy; for the temple of God is holy, which temple ye are.—I. Cor. iii, 17.—Text of Rev. H. S. Johnson's sermon on suit case crime.

LOSES CAREER IN NAVY BY MARRYING BOYHOOD LOVE

Midshipman Rollo Palmer Dismissed From Annapolis, but in Content.

Sweetheart of School Days Won by Him When She Was Left a Widow.

Special to the Boston American.
WARREN, Vt., Nov. 14.—For marrying under most romantic circumstances a pretty widow he had loved from childhood days, Midshipman Rollo C. Palmer was discharged from the Naval Academy at Annapolis and has returned to this town, where he is living with his bride at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Wakefield.

The bride was Mrs. George Elliott, a widow of little more than a year. Before her first marriage, when she was 18, she had been married to a young man who was her playmate. They went to the same school together, and founded an affection which has never been broken.

Then George Elliott came on the scene. He was a little schoolboy and she married him February 18, 1904. When young Palmer was graduated from the Northfield High School and issued that he decided that life in Vermont had no charm for him, he went to the industrial field he secured admission to Annapolis, and tried hard to forget the little girl in Vermont.

Called on the Widow.
Then came the news of Mr. Elliott's death. Mr. Elliott died August 20, 1904, after less than seven months of married life. Young Palmer wrote a letter of condolence to Mrs. Elliott, and that letter was answered. Correspondence was resumed, and the old love renewed.

When young Palmer secured a leave of absence from Annapolis in September the first thing he did was to call on Mrs. Elliott. It did not need a great deal of persuasion for Mrs. Elliott to decide that she should marry Palmer. So, throwing all precedent to the winds, and unthinkingly of what Uncle Sam had said, she agreed.

Discharged from Academy.
There came the news of Mr. Elliott's death. Mr. Elliott died August 20, 1904, after less than seven months of married life. Young Palmer wrote a letter of condolence to Mrs. Elliott, and that letter was answered. Correspondence was resumed, and the old love renewed.

JEALOUS MAN KILLS BELLE OF THE BALL

QUARRELS WITH SWEETHEART BECAUSE SHE WAS POPULAR, SHOTS HER AND SELF.

Special to the Boston American.
BIRMINGHAM, N. H., Nov. 13.—After a prolonged contest occasioned by a quarrel with his sweetheart at a dance, Val M. Webster, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Webster, shot and killed Miss Emma Leclair in her room in the Cleveland block. He then killed himself.

The two went to a dance Saturday night and Miss Leclair, pretty and popular, was the belle of the occasion. On the way home after the dance Webster, agitated by her beauty, he paid her no attention to him that he thought he deserved. After reaching the block where the girl resided with her sister, they stood on the steps for nearly an hour discussing the matter in each had seen that other occupants of the block heard the quarrel.

The following day, while Miss Leclair's sister was at church, Webster went to the girl's room. This was about 10:30 o'clock. He had a revolver with him. He did not know, but they were alone in the room for an hour and twenty minutes before any sound was heard. Then there was a shot and a man came out of the room. He was shot in the chest and fell. He died before he could be taken to the hospital. The girl was also shot and died. The police are investigating the case.

Young Palmer went with his bride to Greenville, N. Y., just across the Vermont border, where he was married by the Rev. George K. Statham.

Discharged from Academy.
Palmer remained with his bride seven days more than his leave of absence from Annapolis allowed him. He then he turned himself from her side and returned to the academy. He was in disgrace for disobeying the rules of the academy by marrying before his leave expired. He was discharged from the academy as a midshipman, but was discharged by order of the Secretary of the Navy before he had a chance to get the resignation accepted.

Palmer came back to Vermont by the first train. He is now living here with his father. He is a handsome young man and is a good fellow. He is now a student at the University of Vermont. He is now a student at the University of Vermont.

SPEECH OF P. F. MURPHY FEATURE OF THE HORSE SHOW BREAKFAST

SOCIETY LEADERS WHO WILL WELCOME PRINCE LOUIS OF BATTENBERG AT NEW YORK HORSE SHOW THIS EVENING.

Boston Man's Witty Remarks Delight Hearers at Opening Exercises.

Society Out in Force Tonight to Greet Prince Louis and Prince Alexander.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—With over 1,700 entries in the various classes, the twenty-second exhibition of the National Horse Show Association began today, with an hour's exercise of harness and saddle horses in the big enclosure.

The entrance of the animals, which marked the opening of the annual show, was announced by Butler Allen, who has officiated in this capacity for many years.

Among the first of the best known horse owners to make an appearance in the ring were Mrs. John V. Leary, who drove two sets of ponies, and Miss Belle Reed, who rode a spirited chestnut hunter.

In point of class, the horses are up to the average standard of former years. Nearly all the showmen have been here last year and have shown their horses in the ring and in the stable, and under other conditions.

Among the judges of the show are: John V. Leary, who drove two sets of ponies, and Miss Belle Reed, who rode a spirited chestnut hunter.

'INDUSTRIALS' 'SINKERS' NOT SEEK CONTROL OF FEDERATION

Old Issue Is Foremost Again in the Pittsburgh Convention.

NO OPPONENTS TO GOMPERS

By Frank K. Foster.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 12.—The American Federation of Labor opened its twenty-third annual session in Old City Hall this morning. Over 25,000 local organizations of craftsmen will be represented by delegates from local, State, central, national and international unions. Geographically, practically every State and Territory in the Union will send a delegation, as will the Dominion of Canada, British Columbia, Porto Rico and possibly Mexico, Hawaii and the Philippines.

No more fitting place could have been selected for this winter continental meeting of the Federation than this city at the junction of the Monongahela and Allegheny rivers, where of old time the trouble of Venice would have been the glory of this city; where the river of the future ever recedes into the distance, and the city which the river of the future ever recedes into the distance, and the city which the river of the future ever recedes into the distance.

The idea of the American Federation of Labor, as it was first conceived, was to unite in a conference of representative labor unions which met in New York, in August, 1881, in response to a call issued by Lyman Stearns, president of the International Typographical Union. The first annual convention was held at Pittsburgh in the following November, and was attended by thirty-two delegates, the convention of the next year, which was held in Cleveland, O.

The early years of the federation were beset with difficulties, owing to the weakness of the union, and the lack of unity of civil organizations. In 1888 it secured the addition of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, and in 1890 the International Association of Machinists. In 1892 it secured the addition of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, and in 1890 the International Association of Machinists.

Problems of Convention. Some specific instances of these incidents were given, which will probably cause no consideration at Pittsburgh, are the relations between the engineers and miners, the engineers and lawyers, and the carpenters and woodworkers, the painters and plumbers, the machinists and the ironworkers.

With all other associations possessing a considerable amount of money, the federation has of late years been confronted with an internal financial crisis, and the contraction of power, in direct opposition to the original intention of the union, to secure concrete expression in the policy of the union, and to secure the union's power.

FEET OF BOBBY?

BY W. W. NAUGHTON.

By Longest Leaved Wife in World.
SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 12.—When will the ring in which Bob Fitzsimmons and Jack Johnson are to fight be closed?

At first it was thought that Fitzsimmons was to be the challenger, and that Johnson was to be the champion. But now it is thought that Johnson is to be the challenger, and Fitzsimmons is to be the champion.

San Francisco, Nov. 12.—About a week from now the famous boxing match between Bob Fitzsimmons and Jack Johnson will be fought in the city of San Francisco. The fight is expected to be one of the greatest of the year.

It is expected that the fight will be a close one. Both men are of the same weight, and both are of the same nationality. The fight is expected to be a very exciting one.

TAD STROLLS IN THE HEAVYWEIGHT CEMETERY

BRITT READY TO BET HE CAN BEAT NELSON

Willie Britt, brother of the famous fighter, is back in town with the picture of the Nelson-Britt fight, which will be at the Utah Theatre this week.

Let us turn our attention once more to the "big" heavyweight class, and review the white meat of the boxers to eat, and the fat of the "beasties" to eat.

Two years the old gent has shown signs of age, and at present there is a good chance that he won't be able to go through a fight in shape of course. But in the case of Johnson, the situation is quite different.

JEFF'S FOOT
BOO AGAIN

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 12.—A story came from San Francisco to the effect that a Melbourne promoter had offered a champion Jim Jeffries a handsome sum of money to come to the city of Melbourne and fight the champion of the world.

There is a little fear of Jeffries coming to Australia to meet Sullivan. As far as he has gone, Jeff seems to be thoroughly in the mood for the fight.

LEAVE CAMP

Harvard's football eleven is in good shape, considering the bruising game against Penn Saturday. Lockwood, who played such a rousing game at Philadelphia, despite lack of experience, was the only player who suffered any real injury.

Although physically the Harvard men are in good shape, they are all a bit tired from their week-end exertions against the Quakers.

Crimson's Poor Showing in Game With Pennsylvania at Philadelphia Shows HARVARD'S SYSTEM WRONG

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—The Herald today prints the following about Harvard's football system:

Harvard has limited the promise of the early season work, which was nothing at all. W. T. Hall has failed to live up to his promise.

For some reason or other, as athletes and fast a halfback as "Doc" Nichols did not make the team.

The number of penalties against both Harvard and the rank-and-file players to show up the poverty of the play, and, despite the fact that "Bill" Edwards was more often than most.

Before the game the general belief was that Harvard's superior school of football would carry the day.

Two years the old gent has shown signs of age, and at present there is a good chance that he won't be able to go through a fight in shape of course.

Before the game the general belief was that Harvard's superior school of football would carry the day.

There is a little better due tonight, when Lew Myers, of New York, and Fred Shuler, back of at the Berkeley A. C. at the Berkeley A. C.

The ring fans could not wait for a faster pair of footpads than the two.

Myers has never been seen in the ring, but he has the record books for himself.

Sullivan has a high record for the defense, and has been praised for the defense.

It had been a long time since the local fans have been in to see Shuler in the ring, but they are aware that there is always a run for their money when he is in the ring.

BROWN GAME DIDN'T PLEASE YALE COACHES

NEW HAVEN, Ct., Nov. 12.—Some of the disappointment felt in the Yale coaches because the eleven did not show more ability against the country competition.

The "varsity" men are to be given a day off today, and on Tuesday will be the lightest of work.

One of the prominent winners of the day was the Boston trotter, Ida Grey, which showed for ability to step down the stretch with the fastest aplomb.

One of the best riders of the day was a three-year-old colt, with the name of De Shays and Mona Wilkes as starters.

GOOD BOAT PROMISED.
The meeting of Al Belmont and Will Gibbs at the Union Boat A. C., Boston, N. E., Wednesday night, should be a very exciting one.

It is expected that the meeting will be a very exciting one. The two men are both of the same weight, and both are of the same nationality.
